File No. __ CRS __

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
v.
DEFENDANT

-) DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR
-) DISCOVERY OF INFORMATION
-) PERTAINING TO BATSON
-) LITIGATION

NOW COMES the Defendant, _____, and respectfully moves the Court for an order directing the State to provide to the defense information concerning any policy or training, past or present, written or informal, regarding the use of peremptory strikes in jury selection, and notice of any prior findings that this prosecutor struck a juror based on race, ethnicity or gender. This information is required under the Sixth, Eighth, and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, Article I, §§ 1, 19, and 26 of the North Carolina Constitution. See Batson v. Kentucky, 476 U.S. 79 (1986); J. E. B. v. Alabama ex rel. T. B., 511 U.S. 127 (1994); Miller-El v. Cockrell (Miller-El I), 537 U.S. 322 (2003); Miller-El v. Dretke (Miller-El II), 545 U.S. 231 (2005); Snyder v. Louisiana, 552 U.S. 472 (2008); Foster v. Chatman, 136 S.Ct. 1737 (2016); Flowers v. Mississippi, 139 S.Ct. 2228 (2019); State v. Hobbs, 374 N.C. 345 (2020); and State v. Cofield, 320 N.C. 297, 302, 357 S.E.2d 622, 625 (1987) ("The people of North Carolina have declared that they will not tolerate the corruption of their juries by racism . . . and similar forms of irrational prejudice."). In support of this motion, Defendant states the following:

Grounds for Motion

Under the Batson analysis, courts must consider a history of prosecutorial strikes based on race, ethnicity, or gender. In Hobbs, 374 N.C. at 358, the North Carolina

Supreme Court held the trial court erred in not “consider[ing] historical evidence of the State’s discriminatory peremptory strikes from past trials in the jurisdiction.” See also Flowers, 139 S.Ct. at 2245 (considering “the history of the prosecutor’s peremptory strikes in Flowers’ first four trials”); Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 263-64 (considering policy of district attorney’s office of systematically excluding black from juries, which was in place “for decades leading up to the time this case was tried”).

Evidence that training materials providing instruction on how to evade the strictures of Batson are available to the prosecution is unquestionably relevant to the question of whether a strike is motivated by race. In Miller-El II, the Court considered the following training evidence in reaching its conclusion that the Texas prosecutor had violated Batson:

A manual entitled ‘Jury Selection in a Criminal Case’ [sometimes known as the Sparling Manual] was distributed to prosecutors. It contained an article authored by a former prosecutor (and later a judge) under the direction of his superiors in the District Attorney’s Office, outlining the reasoning for excluding minorities from jury service. Although the manual was written in 1968, it remained in circulation until 1976, if not later, and was available at least to one of the prosecutors in Miller–El’s trial.

545 U.S. at 264 (bracket in original, citation omitted).

It is notable the petitioner in Miller-El II did not present evidence that the attorneys who personally prosecuted his case actually studied the training manual at issue. Rather, the Supreme Court focused on the fact that the training materials were “available.” Additionally, in Miller-El II, the discriminatory training materials predated the defendant’s trial by approximately a decade. Nonetheless, the Miller-El II Court concluded,

If anything more is needed for an undeniable explanation of what was going on, history supplies it. The prosecutors took their cues from a 20-year-old manual of tips on jury selection.

Id. at 266.

It is significant also that we know that North Carolina prosecutors have been trained in how to justify strikes of African Americans. At a 1994 seminar called Top Gun, prosecutors were given a list of race-neutral reasons to cite when Batson challenges were raised. This list, or “cheat sheet,” titled “Batson Justifications,” included “attitude,” “body language,” and a “lack of eye contact with Prosecutor” — the types of justifications that prosecutors routinely give for striking black jurors in North Carolina. A group of prominent former prosecutors filed a friend-of-the-court brief in Foster v. Chatman and described the Top Gun cheat sheet as an effort to “train their prosecutors to deceive judges as to their true motivations.” Brief of Amici Curiae of Joseph diGenova, et al., available at <http://www.scotusblog.com/case-files/cases/foster-v-humphrey/> at 8. Unfortunately, as the existence of the Top Gun handout demonstrates, “the use of race- and gender-based stereotypes in the jury-selection process seems better organized and more systematized than ever before.” Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 270 (Breyer, J., concurring).

Wherefore, Defendant asks the Court to enter an order directing the prosecutor to turn over to the defense all information pertaining to any policy or training, past or present, written or informal, regarding the use of peremptory strikes in jury selection, and any prior findings by any court that the prosecutor struck a juror based on his or her race, ethnicity, or gender.

Respectfully submitted, this the ____ day of _____.
