STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

v.

DEFENDANT

DEFENDANT’S MOTION TO PROHIBIT IMPERMISSIBLY-MOTIVATED PEREMPTORY STRIKES AND FOR THE COURT TO TAKE CONSIDER HISTORICAL EVIDENCE OF JURY DISCRIMINATION

NOW COMES the Defendant, _____, and respectfully moves the Court to prohibit the exercise of peremptory strikes motivated by race, gender, or any other impermissible motivation. Defendant makes this motion based on the Sixth, Eighth, and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, Article I, §§ 1, 19, and 26 of the North Carolina Constitution, and Batson v. Kentucky, 476 U.S. 79 (1986); Miller-El v. Cockrell (Miller-El I), 537 U.S. 322 (2003); Miller-El v. Dretke (Miller-El II), 545 U.S. 231 (2005); Snyder v. Louisiana, 552 U.S. 472 (2008); Foster v. Chatman, 136 S.Ct. 1737 (2016); Flowers v. Mississippi, 139 S.Ct. 2228 (2019); State v. Cofield, 320 N.C. 297, 357 S.E.2d 622 (1987) (“The people of North Carolina have declared that they will not tolerate the corruption of their juries by racism . . . and similar forms of irrational prejudice.”); and State v. Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d 492 (2020).

Defendant also moves that this Court consider the evidence outlined below regarding the history of jury discrimination in [this county and] the State of North Carolina.

In support of the motion, Defendant shows the following:

I. THIS COURT MUST APPLY THE PRECEDENTS OF THE NORTH CAROLINA AND UNITED STATES SUPREME COURTS IN ADJUDICATING THE CONSTITUTIONALITY OF ANY CHALLENGED PEREMPTORY STRIKES

Defendant intends to object to the use of any peremptory challenges exercised in violation of the Constitutions of the United States or of the State of North Carolina, or otherwise in violation of the law, and asks this Court to disallow any such impermissible strikes. The United States and North Carolina Constitutions prohibit the consideration of race in exercising peremptory strikes. Batson v. Kentucky, 476 U.S. 79 (1986); State v. Cofield, 320 N.C. 297, 357 S.E.2d 622 (1987). The state and federal constitutions likewise prohibit discrimination on the basis of gender in the exercise of peremptory strikes. J.E.B. v. Alabama ex rel. T.B., 511 U.S. 127 (1994); N.C. Const. Art 1, Sec. 26.

Diverse juries have been found to focus more on the evidence, make fewer inaccurate statements, and make fewer uncorrected statements – all factors which heighten the reliability of verdicts. See Jerry Kang et al., Implicit Bias in the Courtroom, 59 UCLA L. REV. 1124, 1180 (2012) (discussing Samuel R. Sommers, On Diversity and Group Decision Making: Identifying Multiple Effects of Racial Composition on Jury Deliberation, 90 J. PERSONALITY & SOC. PSYCHOL. 597 (2006)).

Defendant draws the Court’s attention to the following rules set forth by the Supreme Courts of North Carolina and the United States:

- A single race-based strike violates the Constitution. “Striking only one black prospective juror for a discriminatory reason violates a black defendant’s equal protection rights, even when other black jurors are seated and even when valid reasons are articulated for challenges to other black prospective jurors.” United States v. Joe, 928 F.2d 99, 103 (4th Cir. 1991) (citing United States v. Lane, 866 F.2d 103, 105 (4th Cir. 1989)); see also Snyder, 552 U.S. at 478 (citing Lane); Flowers, 139 S.Ct. at 2244

(“The Constitution forbids striking even a single prospective juror for a discriminator reason), citing Foster, 136 S.Ct. at 1747.

- The Defendant’s prima facie burden is light. “[A] defendant satisfies the requirements of Batson’s first step by producing evidence sufficient to permit the trial judge to draw an inference that discrimination has occurred.” Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d at 497, quoting Johnson v. California, 545 U.S. 162, 170 (2005); State v. Hoffman, 348 N.C. 548, 553 (2008) (“Step one of the Batson analysis . . . is not intended to be a high hurdle for defendants to cross.”). “The burden on a defendant at this stage is one of production, not persuasion... At the stage of presenting a prima facie case, the defendant is not required to persuade the court conclusively that discrimination has occurred.” Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d at 498.
- At the prima facie stage, the court must consider all relevant circumstances, including history. “A defendant may rely on ‘all relevant circumstances’ to raise an inference of purposeful discrimination.” Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d at 497. quoting Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 240. Specifically, in determining whether the prima facie case has been met, “a court must consider historical evidence of discrimination in a jurisdiction.” Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d at 498.
- The ultimate question under Batson is not whether race was the sole factor for the strike, but whether race was significant in the decision. The question before the Court is whether race is “significant in determining who was challenged and who was not.” Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 252 (2005). Put another way, “the ultimate inquiry is whether the State was motivated in substantial part by discriminatory intent.” Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d at 499, quoting Flowers, 139 S.Ct. at 2244 and Foster, 136 S.Ct. at 1754. A defendant need not show race was the sole factor for the strike. State v. Waring, 364 N.C. 443, 480 (2010); Hobbs 841 S.E.2d at 513, n. 2.
- Establishing a Batson violation does not require direct evidence of discrimination. See Batson, 476 U.S. at 93 (noting that “circumstantial evidence,” including “disproportionate impact” may establish a constitutional violation); Flowers, 139 S.Ct. at 2243 (“Our precedents allow criminal defendants raising Batson challenges to present a variety of evidence to support a claim that a prosecutor’s peremptory strikes were made on the basis of race.”)
- Disparate treatment of similarly-situated jurors is evidence of racial bias. When prospective jurors of another race provided similar answers but were not the subject of a peremptory challenge, this is evidence the strike is motivated by race. See Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d at 502 (trial court erred in failing to “examin[e] the comparisons in the white and black potential jurors’ answers.”); Flowers, 139 S.Ct. at 2248 (“comparison of [prospective jurors who were struck and not struck] can suggest that the prosecutor's proffered explanations for striking black prospective jurors were a pretext for discrimination."); Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 241 ("If a prosecutor's proffered reason for striking a black panelist applies just as well to an otherwise-similar nonblack who is permitted to serve, that is evidence tending to prove purposeful discrimination.").

- The Defendant does not have the burden of proving an exact comparison. When comparing white venire members who were passed with jurors of color sought to be struck, the Court must not insist the prospective jurors are identical in all respects. Indeed, a "per se rule that a defendant cannot win a Batson claim unless there is an exactly identical white juror would leave Batson inoperable; potential jurors are not products of a set of cookie cutters." Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 247 n. 6; see also Flowers 139 S.Ct. at 2249 ("a defendant is not required to identify an identical white juror for the side-by-side comparison to be suggestive of discriminatory intent.")
- A prosecutor's misrepresentation of the record is evidence of racial bias. When prosecutors justify their strikes with statements about black prospective jurors that are factually inaccurate, this is evidence of pretext. See Flowers, 139 S.Ct. at 2243, 2250 ("When a prosecutor misstates the record in explaining a strike, that misstatement can be another clue showing discriminatory intent.... The State's pattern of factually inaccurate statements about black prospective jurors suggests that the State intended to keep black prospective jurors off the jury."); Foster, 136 S.Ct. at 1754 (discounting prosecutor's explanation where the "trial transcripts clearly indicate the contrary").
- Differential questioning is evidence of racial bias. When jurors of different races are asked significantly more questions or different questions, this is evidence the strike is motivated by race. See Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 255 ("contrasting voir dire questions" posed respectively to black and white prospective jurors "indicate that the State was trying to avoid black jurors").
- An absence of questioning is evidence of racial bias. When the juror is not questioned on the area of alleged concern, this is evidence the strike is motivated by race. See Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 246 ("failure to engage in any meaningful voir dire examination on a subject the State alleges it is concerned about is evidence suggesting that the explanation is a sham and a pretext for discrimination") (internal citation omitted).
- Evidence that prosecutors were trained in how to evade the strictures of Batson is evidence of racial bias. See Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 264 (considering evidence of a jury selection manual outlining reasons for excluding minorities from jury service); Foster v. Chatman, Brief of Amici Curiae of Joseph diGenova, et al., available at <http://www.scotusblog.com/case-files/cases/foster-v-humphrey/> at 8 (describing North Carolina prosecution seminar in 1994 that “train[ed] their prosecutors to deceive judges as to their true motivations”).

- Historical evidence that prosecutors discriminated in other cases is evidence of racial bias. In Hobbs, the North Carolina Supreme Court held the trial court had erred at Batson’s third step when it failed to weigh “the historical evidence that Mr. Hobbs brought to the trial court’s attention.” 841 S.E.2d at 502; see also Flowers, 139 S.Ct. at 2245 (considering “the history of the prosecutor’s peremptory strikes in Flowers’ first four trials”); Miller-El II, 545 U.S. at 263-64 (considering policy of district attorney’s office of systematically excluding black from juries, which was in place “for decades leading up to the time this case was tried”).
- The peremptory challenges exercised by the defendant are not relevant to the question of whether the State discriminated. Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d at 502 (finding the trial court erred in considering the pattern of defense strikes because “the peremptory challenges exercised by the defendant are not relevant to the State’s motivations”).
- The Defendant does not bear the burden of disproving each and every reason proffered by the prosecutor. In Foster, the petitioner challenged the prosecution’s strikes of two African Americans. As to both potential jurors, the prosecution offered a “laundry list” of reasons why these two African Americans were objectionable. 136 S.Ct. at 1748. The Court did not analyze all of the reasons proffered by the State. Rather, after unmasking and debunking three of eleven reasons for the strike of one venire member and five of eight reasons for the other strike, the Court concluded that the strikes of these jurors were “motivated in substantial part by discriminatory intent.” Id. at 1754, quoting Snyder v. Louisiana, 552 U.S. at 485. See also State v. Montgomery, 331 N.C. 559, 576-77 (1992) (“To allow an ostensibly valid reason for excusing a potential juror to ‘cancel out’ a patently discriminatory and unconstitutional reason would render Article 1, Section 26 [of the North Carolina Constitution] an empty vessel.”) (Frye, J., Exum, C.J., and Whichard, J. concurring in the result).

Defendant asks this Court to apply these principles in adjudicating any objections under Batson,¹ and thereby prohibit race discrimination in the selection of Defendant’s jury.

II. THIS COURT MUST CONSIDER HISTORICAL EVIDENCE OF JURY DISCRIMINATION

In Hobbs, the North Carolina Supreme Court held “a court must consider historical evidence of discrimination in a jurisdiction” when determining whether defendant has established a prima facie case of discrimination. Hobbs, 841 S.E.2d at 498 (emphasis added). The Hobbs court further held that the trial court had erred in failing to consider, at Batson’s third step, “the historical evidence that Mr. Hobbs brought to the trial court’s attention.” Id. at 502.

Therefore, Defendant requests that the court consider the following studies showing racial disparities in jury selection in North Carolina criminal cases, including capital cases. These studies include:

- A 2010 Michigan State University (MSU) study of North Carolina capital cases from 1990-2010. The MSU researchers analyzed more than 7,400 peremptory strikes made by North Carolina prosecutors in 173 capital cases tried between 1990 and 2010. The study showed prosecutors struck 53 percent of eligible African-American jurors and only 26 percent of all other eligible jurors in those capital proceedings. The researchers found that the probability of this disparity occurring in a race-neutral jury selection was less than one in 10 trillion. After adjusting for non-racial characteristics that might reasonably affect strike decisions, for example, reluctance to impose the death penalty, researchers found prosecutors struck black jurors at 2.5 times the rate they struck all other jurors. The study findings are described in Grosso, Catherine and O’Brien, Barbara, A Stubborn Legacy: the Overwhelming Importance of Race in Jury Selection in 173 Post-Batson North Carolina Capital Trials, 97 Iowa L. Rev. 1531 (2012), a copy of which is attached to this notice as Exhibit A.
- A 2017 study conducted by Wake Forest University School of Law professors found that in North Carolina felony trials in 2011– which included data on nearly 30,000 potential jurors in just over 1,300 cases – prosecutors struck non-white potential jurors at a disproportionate rate. In these cases, prosecutors struck non-white jurors about twice as often as they excluded white jurors. The Wake Forest findings are discussed in Wright, Ronald F. and Chavis, Kami, Parks, Gregory Scott, The Jury Sunshine Project: Jury

144-45 (holding that Batson’s protections and framework apply equally to gender discrimination).

Selection Data as a Political Issue (June 28, 2017), a copy of which is attached as Exhibit B.

- A 1999 study of the use of peremptory strikes in Durham County showed that African Americans were much more likely to be excused by the State. Approximately 70 percent of African Americans were dismissed by the State, while less than 20 percent of whites were struck by the prosecution. The Durham findings are detailed in Mary R. Rosel, The Peremptory Challenge Accused of Race or Gender Discrimination? Some Data from One County, 23 LAW & HUM. BEHAV. 695, 698-99 (1999), a copy of which is attached as Exhibit C.

Add any other history regarding this prosecutor or your county, for example prior sustained Batson objections, county-specific MSU or WFU data, or a pattern of prior cases with disparate strike rates. Call CDPL for more information:
